

HOUSE OFFICERS

Vacancy Number: 070814

We are looking for a number of PGY2 (2nd year) or above House Officers to join our team here at Gisborne Hospital.

The Hospital boasts modern facilities and a relaxed and supportive work environment. With no registrars, our house officers enjoy working one-on-one with their consultants and the additional learning opportunities and challenges this brings. The Medical Council of New Zealand Education Committee, following a recent visit, commented that Gisborne Hospital offers “an excellent learning opportunity for House Officers.”

The Medical Council has further noted the advantages of experience in peripheral New Zealand hospitals and encourages doctors to consider working in these areas during their early postgraduate years. It lists the following advantages of working in a smaller centre over a large tertiary teaching hospital –

- Access to a much wider range of patient conditions
- Fewer patients, allowing more time for assessment and admission
- A more direct relationship between house officer and consultant
- More experience with practical procedures
- A closer relationship with local general practitioners

Our roster is described as “one of the best in the country” (not our words!) – one of the important differences being our house surgeons are also not required to be onsite overnight, ever!

Gisborne - on the East Coast of the North Island - enjoys a temperate climate, internationally renowned wines, fabulous fishing and surfing beaches and ready access to all outdoor pursuits.

Applicants must either hold current General Scope of Practice Registration or be eligible for Provisional General Scope of Practice Registration.
