

Paediatric Emergency Medicine Specialist Children's Emergency Department

Starship Children's Health requires Paediatric Emergency Medicine Specialists for our Children's Emergency Department (CED). We have a full time and a part time (6/10) positions available.

Starship Children's Health is a tertiary paediatric teaching hospital and associated services aligned with the University of Auckland, New Zealand. The CED receives 30,000 acute attendances per annum and is the paediatric advanced trauma centre for the region. There is a high acuity mix, with approximately 30% of children being admitted. The CED is in close proximity the Paediatric Intensive Care Unit, Radiology Department, and Operating Theatres and there are strong collaborative working relationships between these units dealing with acute illness and injury. The CED includes 9 short stay beds for management of children for up to 12 hours under the care of the Emergency Specialist.

Auckland is a challenging and rewarding environment in which to practice Paediatric Emergency Medicine as we see a broad range of childhood illnesses and injuries. The CED is housed in a new purpose built facility with state of the art equipment and is staffed by a great team of health professionals. There are excellent opportunities to be involved in research and teaching.

The positions will have a primarily clinical focus, with protected time for teaching, research and administrative duties. Clinical duties will include evening and weekend work, and involve supervision of Registrars and SHOs as well. You will be responsible to the Clinical Director, Children's Emergency Department.

You should have strong clinical skills, together with an interest and experience in teaching and have excellent training and experience in Paediatric Emergency Medicine. You would have FRACP and/or FACEM and must be eligible to be registered as a Specialist in Paediatrics and Emergency Medicine in New Zealand.
